Government Supervisor in Westerly

Leslie McQuilkin Arrives to Superintend Construction of New Post Office Building—Teacher Resigns to Go to New Jersey Schools—Band Concert Tonight—Site For New Passenger Station Staked Out—English Fisheries Expert in Town.

It is a mooted question in police circles in Rhode Island, whether the arrest by Police Sergeant Edwin E. West of Chauffeur Frank Turano in Westerly was the first case brought under the new statute, prohibiting excessive smoking to escape from automobiles. Sergeant West made the arrest at five o'clock in the afternoon of Tuesday, and Arthur C. Lohr was arrested in Providence on the same day for a similar offense, so it is a matter of an hour or so whether the credit goes to the Westerly or Providence police. Turano is held for trial in bonds of $200 in the Third District court.

Lohr was tried in the Sixth District court, found guilty and fined $10 and costs, and took an appeal, furnishing a bond of $200. Lohr said he could not help the escape of the smoke, for in driving the machine up a hill the oil runs in such a manner that smoke is produced and even while the machine was stopped the smoke escaped.

Counsel for Lohr argued that certain cars were so constructed that oil flows from one end of the engine hose to the other when the car is climbing a steep grade. Smoke will be produced in spite of anything the operator can do, and that therefore the smoke was not due to the operator but to the construction of the automobile.

The city solicitor argued that the statute was enacted to prevent nuisance and that if smoke escaped in violation of the law the operator was liable to prosecution whether it was his fault or the fault of the car. The judge took a like view of the case and said that if a man in operating an automobile so as to emit an excessive amount of smoke he is guilty of a violation of the law, whether it was from the method of operating the vehicle or from defective construction.

Superintendent Reynolds of the Pawcatuck schools at the meeting of the school board, Tuesday, stated that he had received the resignation of Miss Wilhelmina Erodie of Westerly, who is to teach in Plainfield, N. J., at nearly double the salary she has been receiving. He recommended Miss Alice J. Williams of Westerly as her successor and said that Miss Williams was graduated from the Westerly High school and was a recent graduate of the State Normal school, and trained in the Oliver Training school for the past five months, under Principal Mary E. Spooner. Miss Williams, he said, was well recommended and gave evidence of being a very promising teacher.

Leslie McQuilkin, of Saratoga, Pa., superintendent of construction of the office of supervising architect, treasury department, Washington, has been assigned to supervise the construction of the post office building in Westerly. He arrived Wednesday afternoon and called upon Postmaster Charles J. Butler, where he examined the plans of the building for the first time. He was shown the site and said it was a particularly well adapted location for the peculiar and beautiful building, and added that congress was very generous in the appropriation, which is about double that usually allowed to population of Westerly's size, and as a result the new building will equal any post office building in any town or city where the population does not exceed 50,000.

The contract for construction of the building, which has been awarded to the incursion General Contracting company, of New York city, and of general marble construction at a cost of about $75,000. The total appropriation is $100,000 which includes the site. Mr. McQuilkin supposed that the work had been started and was surprised to learn that none of the material was on the ground and the work not commenced. He was of the opinion that active work would begin in a few days and stated that he was in Westerly to remain until the building is completed. According to contract the building is to be completed by November 1, 1913.

Charles O. Gavitt, leader of the Westerly band has arranged this program for this (Thursday) evening's concert in Wilcox park: National Air, Hall Columbia; march, Bombasto, Offenbach; overture, Orpheus; popular air, selected; clarinet solo, Air Valse, Metzger; by Louis Solomon; Potpourri of Irish Airs, Ellensberg; march, Major Phantasmic; waltz, selection from the Balken Princess; waltz, Blue Danube; Strauss; Medley of New Popular Airs, De Witt; march, Coronation, Myerbeer; popular two-step, If You Talk in Your Sleep, Ayer; march, Centennial; Reeves; finale, The Star Spangled Banner.

Local Laconies. Frederick Moran, of New London, was a visitor in Westerly Wednesday. The site for the new railroad passenger station was staked out Wednesday.

There's need for an additional policeman in Dixon square during the daytime.

The public statement of a prominent Watch Hill realtor is due to the convenient garbage cans still remain in Bay street.

The police have decided that motorcyclists have no more privileges in operation than automobiles are entitled to enjoy under the law.

Since it has become known that the Westerly policemen mean business there has been marked change in the operation of automobiles.

The state board of roads and highways at their session at Watch Hill issued 120 chauffeurs' licenses and registered 82 automobiles, all owned in other states.

The delay in delivery of granite for the new town hall building is due to inability to secure more prompt railroad service from the red stone quarry to the spur track to Quarry hill.

Samuel Ledoy, employed at the White Rock Mill, had a severe hemorrhage of the nose, and for lack of a more suitable place, he was taken to the police station where he was cared for by Dr. John L. May.

The Hampton students who entertained at the Perry estate in Westerly, July 3 and Watch Hill on the Fourth were at Beverly, Tuesday, and realized $10,000 in support of Hampton institute. Mrs. William Howard Taft headed the list of patronesses.

Robert Valentine, chorister and organist of Christ Episcopal church, who has been appointed teacher of music in the school of Westerly, to succeed H. A. H. Clark, resigned, is at Northampton. He is attending the summer school taking a special course of instruction in school music teaching.

Tony Misteon in the employ of the contracting firm that is building the trolley extension from Pleasant View to Watch Hill, who was arrested by Police Chief Brown after quite a struggle, has paid the penalty. He was arraigned in the Third District court and pleaded guilty to revelling and intoxication. His fines and costs aggregated $13.80.

Captain W. B. Clementson, of Bridlington, England, of the bureau of Fisheries of Great Britain, who came to this country to learn of the lobster battery operation, with E. W. Barnes, superintendent of the Rhode Island lobster rearing station were guests in the house of Charles W. Williams, treasurer of the National Board of Fish commissioners and president of the board of retail fisheries in Rhode Island. They visited the Noank lobster hatchery during the day and were entertained by the Colonial club in the evening.
